

Esotericism according to Faivre

In the modern West we call 'esotericism' a way of thinking characterised by the presence of six elements or components, distributed to a greater or lesser degree within its vast historical and material context.”

Source: FAIVRE, A., L'ésotérisme, Paris, PUF, 1992, p.14